Cold beer and Cracker Jacks. Catch the game. Come by MAX. Summertime in the city. And baseball, thank heavens, is back.

The City of Milwaukie is starting the Bring It Back campaign to attract a Single-A Northwest League team to the Portland market. Why Milwaukie? We're a baseball kind of town, in the middle of a sports-mad region. Not only do we love baseball and beer, we love the nine-acre site at McLoughlin and Ochoco with the old stone building out front. We love that it's on the Springwater Trail, the newest MAX line, Highway 99E and Highway 224. We're working to free up the site for a 4,000-seat ballpark and brew pub. Some others are working on it too. It's a great opportunity.

It's baseball in the city. Help us bring it back.

- ★ Milwaukie Park is within a 20-minute bike ride for about 158,000 people, and a 20-minute drive for more than a million people.
- ★ Construction would result in over 600 new jobs and $60 million in economic activity in the region.
- ★ The historic property is one of two Oregon state administration buildings designed in National Park Service rustic style of architecture.
- ★ Over 600 TriMet park-and-ride parking spaces could potentially be shared for ballpark use, all within a half mile of the site.
- ★ The Northwest League is home to several Single-A franchises in the Pacific Northwest, including the Eugene Emeralds, Salem-Keizer Volcanoes, and the Boise Hawks.
- ★ The League has been operating minor league baseball for almost 60 years, with a Portland team winning the first championship in 1901.
- ★ Northwest League games run from late June to early September, with 38 home dates.

MILWAUKIE PARK BREWPUB

Built in 1938 as a WPA project, the former ODOT Region One Headquarters Building is being studied for a new life as the Milwaukie Park Brewpub. The building, which is approved to be on the National Register for Historic Places, has been vacant since 1995. The brewpub would feature a back patio that would overlook Milwaukie's Main Street and the ballpark's west entry wall.
